RAIN TECHNIQUE

RAIN

Recognize what is happening.

Begin by acknowledging your current emotional or mental state. Recognize your feelings, thoughts, and sensations, understanding that they are part of Allah's creation and subject to His will.

"I feel worried. This is a test from Allah."

Allow the experience to be there.

Surrender to Allah's decree, knowing every experience, pleasant or challenging, is part of His plan for your growth. Embrace the present with patience, trusting His control.

"I trust Allah's plan. I surrender to His will."

Investigate with interest and care.

Reflect deeply on your emotions and thoughts. Self-reflection (muhasabah) is crucial in Islam for spiritual growth. Consider how your experience aligns with Islamic principles. Seek guidance from the Quran and Sunnah for insight.

"I'll reflect on why I feel this way and seek guidance from the Quran."

Non-identification, you are not the emotion.

Recognize that emotions are passing states and not intrinsic to your true self. Though the heart is the seat of emotions and spiritual consciousness, understand that emotions do not define your essence or relationship with Allah.

RAIN TECHNIQUE

The RAIN technique is a powerful mindfulness tool that helps you navigate difficult emotions and stressful situations.

Describe the situation that is upsetting you:

R

Recognize what is happening. Write down your emotions and thoughts that are running through your mind.

A

Allow the experience to be there. Which calming practices can you do to help you relax right now?

I

Investigate with interest and care. Sit in silence and contemplate the root causes of your feelings. Ask yourself, "What is this emotion trying to teach me?"

N

Non-identification, you are not the emotion. Write down as many times as you need, "I am not the emotion".
